

International Reports

Minimise the risks of trading internationally with comprehensive global business information from Experian

Doing business internationally offers great opportunities. However, trading overseas can present unique challenges such as differing regional regulations and lack of local knowledge and access to business information. How do you control your exposure to debt overseas and insure against non-payment from international customers?

Experian's instant Online Reports cover 97%* of Ireland's main export markets

*97% of total value of all exports (Jan - Dec 2011) were to countries where Experian offer instant online reports. Sourced from the Central Statistics Office

Your business needs to mitigate risk while expediting decisions. Experian has endeavoured to source the most complete and accurate business data on over 80 million businesses across 173 countries and organise the data into the Experian report format for ease of interpretation. And furthermore, you access this data online 24/7.

Our data

Our Experian International Business Reports provide you with clear and concise credit limits and credit scores. We source the data for our International Reports from the leading providers of credit information in each of the 173 countries we report on.

Offline analyst investigations and reporting

We offer analyst support to compliment our online service, to assist you in searching and also provide fresh investigations where online data is limited and you need the most detailed and up-to-date information.

Irrespective of which country or primary source we use for your report, we present your information in a consistent format providing clear and concise information at a glance.

Delivery of Data

Accessing International Business Reports online, you will receive the following benefits:

- Available 24/7
- Instant access to the information you require
- Ease of use with enhanced search functionality

- All your reports, national and international, searchable in one place

XML data feeds are available to enable clients to integrate global business information directly into your systems and applications.

With simplified pricing by region, you can monitor and budget your reporting requirements.
